PROBLEMS WITH DIRECT ADVERTISING

- With today's hectic lifestyles candidates increasingly rely on agencies presenting vacancies to them as opposed to putting time aside to search for jobs themselves.
 - Having presented a vacancy to a candidate we then perform a vital role, selling your vacancy to the candidate, which sets your organisation apart from hundreds of one dimensional advertisements.
 - Due to the relatively short shelf life of advertisements (both online and in print) a high proportion can simply be overlooked.
- Unlike advertising, which is payable in advance and where the response is unpredictable, a fee is only payable to us when we find you the right candidate.
 - It costs nothing to view our CV's. We currently have over 20,000 Purchasing & Supply Chain professionals on our database so why not benchmark your own advert response against our candidates?
